DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1-2, 9-23, 27-29, 31, 40-41 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Johnson USPN 3,110,093. Many of applicant's claims are so broad so as to read upon a funnel. With respect to Johnson, Johnson shows an opening in handle 18 and a tapered portion 16 extending therefrom in a tapered manner. Applicant's statement of intended use is given no patentable weight and the Johnson device is considered to be capable of performing the function. The distal portion of 12 is capable of receiving a lead and the proximal portion a pin of the same size. The hypothetical pin and lead(which are not claimed), if sized slightly larger than the channel can serve as a grip. The examiner believes it is capable of serving as a grip or clamp, it is in the shape of a collar and is c-shaped. The slot 20 may indicated rotation by observing its movement during operation and the round handle may serve as rotation direction indicator by indicating that the device is to be rotated about its longitudinal axis rather than its perpendicular axis.

Claims 1-5, 9-11, 13-19, 21-23, 27-34, 40-41 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Zhang USPN 6,120,480. Figures 16 -17 of Zhang show a device with a proximal portion 16 and a distal portion 14. The device provided as a collection of parts to be ultimately assembled for use as a catheter. However the examiner considers distal portion 156 capable of being engaged with a pin to form a frictional clamping fit. The examiner considers the proximal portion to include tapered surface 148. As an alternative interpretation, the examiner considers the element 118 to be the proximal portion. The element fits in distal portion 24 in a snap fit arrangement which allows rotation along a bearing surface 128. In some embodiments (figure 18), a handle/rotational indicator suture device is shown.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claim 6-8, 24-26, 35-39 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments with respect to the claims have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Conclusion

Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
